Big Scanner News at the Dayton Hamvention!

/AOR to demonstrate their new AR-DV1 Multi-Mode Digital Receiver at the Scanner Master booth #402 on Friday May 15th at 2 PM/

Hello Peter,

We are so pleased and excited to announce that Taka Nakayama of AOR-USA will be at our booth on Friday afternoon at theDayton Hamvention <http://hamvention.org/>this year to demonstrate the eagerly awaited, all-new, AR-DV1 receiver.

The DV1 is the first radio that provides decoding of many of the digital formats which no other scanner is able to receive, including:

* MotoTrbo (tm)
* DMR (tm)
* dPMR (tm)
* NXDN (tm)

as well as numerous amateur radio digital formats from Yaesu, Kenwood, Icom and Alinco. The radio will also decode APCO-25 Phase I digital as well as conventional analog traffic. (The receiver does not trunk).
MotoTrbo systems are now used by public safety agencies and business around the country and the world. NXDN is used by public safety as well as railroads around the nation.

This radio is a huge breakthrough and we hope you'll join us at Dayton this year to see the receiver in action, live at our booth. We also will have a small stock available for purchase at the show. Gommert Buysen of BuTel Software will once again be at our booth as well.

Rich Carlson Joins Scanner Master

/Our scanner expert team is now better than ever/

Scanner Master is extremely proud to announce that Rich Carlson, past-president of theChicago Area Radio Monitors Association (CARMA) <http://www.carmachicago.com/>and one of the nation's leading scanner experts, is now part of our team. Rich recently retired as a Sergeant for the Winnetka, Illinois, Police Department and is now assisting Scanner Master customers in choosing the right scanner for their area, answering technical questions and helping us to develop new products and services. Rich is a highly respected member of the monitoring community who has decades of experience with all types of scanners and communications receivers, antennas, software and accessories. He has a great knowledge of the radio systems that we all monitor as he himself helped to institute and manage many in his time. We couldn't bemore excited to have Rich on board.

Both things here are interesting but the bottom part is more relevant to CARMA members.

Weeks behind with these and work/submissions on RadioReference.
Facebook presence has been limited.

Sorry everyone. Started a new job 2 months ago and have just been extremely busy.

My new job in mostly in St Louis/St Charles County, Metro East (St Clair, Madison Counties), through to Macoupin, Sangamon, Morgan, Mason, Tazewell, McDonough, Hancock, Henderson in IL and also Burlington Iowa.
I serve Circle K convenience stores in these areas, driving 2 routes every 2 weeks.

I formerly did a route that served Casey's General Stores. I had 4 routes, every 4 weeks.
My job before, I drove through southwest/central/western IL and parts of Eastern MO and SE Iowa.

Thanks!
Terry Weatherford, WX9SAR

Weeks behind with these and work/submissions on RadioReference.
Facebook presence has been limited.

Sorry everyone. Started a new job 2 months ago and have just been extremely busy.

My new job in mostly in St Louis/St Charles County, Metro East (St Clair, Madison Counties), through to Macoupin, Sangamon, Morgan, Mason, Tazewell, McDonough, Hancock, Henderson in IL and also Burlington Iowa. I serve Circle K convenience stores in these areas, driving 2 routes every 2 weeks.

I formerly did a route that served Casey's General Stores. I had 4 routes, every 4 weeks.
My job before, I drove through southwest/central/western IL and parts of Eastern MO and SE Iowa.

Thanks!
Terry Weatherford, WX9SAR

Former jail guard’s wrongful arrest over radios after botched NYPD probe will spur lawsuit

From the Nov. 2 Daily News.

[full story at:
http://www.nydailynews.com/new-york/exclusive-ex-jail-guard-bad-arrest-radios-spurs-suit-article-1.2420172 http://www.nydailynews.com/new-york/exclusive-ex-jail-guard-bad-arrest-radios-spurs-suit-article-1.2420172]

"Martin Bleiwas, 63, has been a police scanner radio buff since he was a kid and founded the radio repair shop at the city Correction Department in 1981. ...

"...in 1994 when he purchased from a friend more than 1,000 Motorola portable radios that had been decommissioned by various city agencies and auctioned by the city Department of General Services. The walkie-talkies' crystals, antennas and batteries had been removed and do not broadcast police, fire or ambulance calls, but they are sought after by buffs and collectors of memorabilia.

"...Nine investigators from IAB, including a deputy inspector, were outside, armed with a search warrant. Bleiwas said he was asked about radios. He immediately volunteered to show them the documentation he had from the auction and his purchase of the radios, but a detective named Leon Lian told him, "That's OK, bring it to court," according to Klein.

"...More than 200 radios, Bleiwas' cellphone and computer were seized as evidence. Bleiwas was hauled off the First Precinct in lower Manhattan where he was booked on the charge of possession of stolen property.

"...Klein said the IAB investigators were apparently operating under the assumption that the radios could not be legally sold therefore they must be stolen.

"...The charge was dismissed in September and Bleiwas had trouble getting his radios returned until he wrote a letter directly to Manhattan District Attorney Cyrus Vance, he said.

"...He's also trying to get his security guard license restored — it was canceled as a result of the police fiasco..."

1140. Uniden Advances Scanning with Digital Mobile Radio (DMR)

Uniden Advances Scanning with Digital Mobile Radio (DMR)

Demonstrating our commitment to continually enhance the value and relevance of your investment in Uniden products, today we announce the latest upgrades for our flagship BCD436HP and BCD536HP scanners. Soon, owners of these scanners will be able to add the ability to monitor and scan Digital Mobile Radio (DMR) systems including MotoTRBO^(TM) Connect Plus and MotoTRBO Capacity Plus systems with a single paid upgrade, making these scanners the indisputable best-in-class solution for monitoring radio systems. Until now, you've either needed to purchase a single-use radio to monitor these systems or kludge together a system using multiple radio dongles plugged into a PC.

DMR is used extensively across the world by businesses, government agencies, amateur radio operators, and individuals worldwide.RadioReference.com <http://info.uniden.com/twiki/bin/edit/PartnerWeb/radioreference.com>, the premier web site for finding radio system information, has over 600 trunked DMR systems and over 4500 DMR conventional channels documented. But, this is just the beginning of the DMR story. The vast majority of DMR systems have never been documented since, up to now, users could not easily monitor them. Based on a quick survey of FCC records, we expect that there are tens- or even hundreds-of-thousands of additional DMR channels to discover.

And discovery will be important. So, we'll include some basic tools for discovering DMR channels on your own so that you will be able to quickly supplement the information currently provided byRadioReference.com <http://info.uniden.com/twiki/bin/edit/PartnerWeb/radioreference.com>. We'll be adding details, below, as we get closer to finalizing the firmware release, so watch this space.

Using the Uniden BCDx36HP radios, upgraded with the DMR upgrade, you will now be able to seamlessly monitor unencrypted channels on the following system types:

* Conventional Analog channels
* Conventional P25 Digital channels
* Motorola Type I and Type II Trunked Radio systems with Analog and Digital (P25) Voice
* EDACS Analog trunked radio systems
* LTR Analog trunked radio systems
* APCO Project 25 Phase I and Phase II Digital Trunked Radio systems
* EDACS trunked radio systems with*ProVoice channels (paid ProVoice upgrade required)*

* Conventional Digital Mobile Radio (DMR) channels (paid DMR upgrade required)
* MotoTRBO Capacity Plus Trunked Radio systems (paid DMR upgrade required)
* MotoTRBO Connect Plus Trunked Radio Systems (paid DMR upgrade required)

Uniden is the only scanner manufacturer to offer those bolded items, above. Plus, we have even more Uniden exclusive features in these models, including:

* Close Call^® RF Capture
* Dynamic Memory Architecture
* Location-Based Scanning with GPS Support
* Trunked and Conventional Discovery Modes
* WiFi connectivity with iPhone and Android Apps (BCD536HP only, Android App coming in 2016)

We are working on putting the finishing touches on the upgrade but want to give you the opportunity to pre-order the upgrade so that you are ready to monitor DMR from the moment it is released. As a special thanks to early adopters, we are offering the upgrade for only $50 for a limited time. We'll let you know when the pre-ordering site is ready but, until then, save your spare change.

/Disclaimer: The above constitutes a pre-announement, which includes details as we know them today, but which might change based on technical, legal, economic, or other unforeseeable issues that could arise. No portion of this pre-announcement should be considered as a legally binding obligation to perform on Uniden's part./

Now Hear This: Emergency Agencies Turn Off Radio Encryption

Tue, 10/11/2016 - 8:40am
<https://www.ecnmag.com/news/2016/10/now-hear-emergency-agencies-turn-radio-encryption#disqus_thread> 1 Comment by DAVE COLLINS, Associated Press

Some police and fire departments are bucking a trend to conceal dispatch communications from the public, acknowledging that radio encryption has the potential to backfire and put first responders in danger.

Agencies with digital radio systems have turned off the encryption to their main dispatching channels and others have decided not to turn it on. They say their officers and firefighters may not be heard during emergencies by responders at neighboring departments with radio systems that either don't have access to their encrypted channels or aren't advanced enough to have encryption capability.

Officials also say they are addressing concerns from critics who argue encryption decreases police transparency at a time when it is needed, especially in the wake of shootings of unarmed black people by police officers.

"The overwhelming opinion of encryption is that it works great for preplanned tactical environments like SWAT teams staging a situation," said Eddie Reyes, deputy chief of Amtrak police and chairman of the International Association of Chiefs of Police communications and technology committee.

"But for day-to-day operations where officers are going across borders in emergency pursuits or foot pursuits, that's where it tends to break down," he said. "A good number of agencies are still operating on antiquated systems and would not have the ability to accept encryption."

When Reyes was working for Arlington, Virginia, police in 2006, he said, an officer who fatally shot a teenager outside a restaurant inadvertently switched over to encryption mode on his portable radio. There was temporary chaos on the radio when officers en route couldn't communicate with the officer in the shooting because their radios weren't in encryption mode, Reyes said.

A slow trend continues toward encryption, which has been around for years. It hides communications from public airwaves by modifying voice signals with coded algorithms, preventing people from listening via radio scanners, the internet and cellphone apps. Only people with encryption "keys," the information needed to access the encrypted channels, can listen.

Open government advocates say the practice withholds crucial information about emergency situations from the public. Concerns also have been raised by news organizations, which say it cuts off journalists who monitor public safety broadcasts from being alerted to major events.

Police officials say they're worried about the safety of their officers, because criminals have been known to track officers' movements by listening to police communications. They also say they want to prevent the public broadcasting of people's personal information, including medical histories and juveniles' names.

They further cite violence against officers around the country over the past few months and the response to the Boston Marathon bombings in 2013, when people listening to police communications posted misleading and inaccurate information on social media.

Among police departments that have recently encrypted all communications are those in Anchorage, Alaska; Riverside, California; Manchester, New Hampshire; and Newtown, Connecticut.

"What happened this summer really culminated in making the decision," Newtown Police Chief James Viadero said, referring to violence against police. "I had a legitimate concern for my officers."

Other departments are taking the opposite approach. Police in New Orleans; Spokane, Washington; and other cities have vowed not to encrypt their main dispatch channels. Others that had encrypted their communications have turned it off.

Police in Mansfield, Massachusetts, turned off their encryption more than a year ago after officers expressed concern they couldn't talk with counterparts in some neighboring towns, Police Chief Ronald Sellon said. Mansfield is home to the 20,000-seat Xfinity Center outdoor amphitheather, and there were worries about communications with other agencies if there was a mass casualty event at the theater.

Last year, Washington, D.C., officials switched off the encryption for fire communications. The move came after firefighters had problems using their radios in a subway tunnel during an emergency response. The tunnel filled with smoke because of an electrical malfunction, killing one person and sickening dozens more.

The Metro transit agency, which had a radio system in the subway that allowed below-ground communications by city firefighters, said the radio problems were the result of the fire department changing its own radio system, including adding encryption, without telling the transit agency. City officials denied encryption caused the problems.

Police in Naugatuck, Connecticut, like many departments, are keeping their main dispatch channel open to the public while maintaining encrypted channels to use during tactical operations.

Naugatuck Police Chief Christopher Edson cited the need to be able to communicate with other emergency responders, as well as the expense of encryption, which can cost several hundred dollars per radio to implement. Another issue was not wanting to block out the public, he said.

"We also want to be transparent," he said, "during this particular climate in the country."

1166. Aircraft Data Communications

FYI

Saw this on Local Chicago news

Pilots and air traffic controllers are exchanging information in a whole new way with <https://www.faa.gov/nextgen/programs/datacomm/> Data Communications (Data Comm). Leveraging equipment already available in many aircraft, they are sending and receiving flight instructions using digital text-based messages. In the years ahead, pilots and controllers will be able to exchange a variety of other instructions, requests, and reports instead of speaking them over the radio.

https://www.faa.gov/nextgen/update/progress_and_plans/data_comm/

I know Myself and a lot of members are into Aircraft monitoring We have voice VHF/UHF/HF And https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Aircraft_Communications_Addressing_and_Reporting_System

So the question is does anyone know if as Scanner listeners will there be a Program like ACARS So We will be able to also monitor this too

Happy Scanning

Don KA9QJG

PS I do believe this will be a better system because as we all know voice message can get messed up But this will be on a display and read and accepted so Less questions if something does go wrong ….

FYI

I have always thought this was a grey area especially in States like Indiana who have anti scanner laws , I did like the ability of being able to do this not having to buy a new scanner Unfortunately this type of objections by the Agencies may continue

Stay Tuned

Happy and Responsible Scanning

1178. Fwd: (CARMA) GMRS/FRS Rules Changes

Yahoo group: ScanIndiana

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: (CARMA) GMRS/FRS Rules Changes
Date: Thu, 27 Apr 2017 19:15:42 -0700
From: Richard Carlson n9jig@... [carmachicago]
<carmachicago@yahoogroups.com>
Reply-To: carmachicago@yahoogroups.com, Richard Carlson <n9jig@...>
To: undisclosed-recipients:;

In reading the new rules from the FCC here is my take on what is happening. Once the rulemaking is passed it would take effect 90 days later. It looks like it will be on the agenda for the May FCC meeting, thus if passed should take effect in the late summer 2017.

FRS is being expanded to 2 watts and full unlicensed access to the 8 GMRS 462 MHz. channels with 2 watts. Thus FRS radios will be allowed 2 watts on 22 channels. This effectively legalizes unlicensed use of the 22 channel bubble-pack radios without need for license and allows new radios to be set to 2 watts on all 22 channels.

Radios with power levels over 2 watts on any of these channels are now classified as GMRS and require licenses. No cross-service (FRS-GMRS, FRS-Marine Band etc.) radios will be allowed.

The 467 MHz. repeater inputs are NOT authorized for FRS use and are still restricted to GMRS licensees only.

Channels that had been shared between FRS & GMRS. FRS users were limited to 1/2 watt.
(FRS Channels 1-7)
462.5625 FRS 1
462.5875 FRS 2
462.6125 FRS 3
462.6375 FRS 4
462.6625 FRS 5
462.6875 FRS 6
462.7125 FRS 7

Channels that are/were FRS Only, limited to 1/2 watt.
(FRS 8-14)
467.5625 FRS 8
467.5875 FRS 9
467.6125 FRS 10
467.6375 FRS 11
467.6625 FRS 12
467.6875 FRS 13
467.7125 FRS 14

Former GMRS Only channels often included in Bubble Pack radios
(Now known as FRS Channels 15-22)
462.5500 FRS 15
462.5750 FRS 16
462.6000 FRS 17
462.6250 FRS 18
462.6500 FRS 19
462.6750 FRS 20
462.7000 FRS 21
462.7250 FRS 22

GMRS Licenses will remain to be required.

Other changes include:

* Rule Numbering will change thruout.
* Technical specs will be updated to conform with current technology and terminology.
* Scrambling/encryption will not be allowed.
* Certain portable radios will no longer require GMRS licenses and will be reclassified to FRS.
* GMRS Licenses will be extended to 10 years, making them cheaper per annum since the fee will not change.
* Location info and some texts will be allowed to be sent with GMRS transmissions.

Bentonville, AR-- (May 19th , 2017) Beginning June 1st , 2017, The Whistler Group, Inc., a leading industry supplier of radio scanners and mobile electronics, will offer a feature upgrade program for the Pro-18, Pro-668 and PSR-800 scanners.
